NOTED SCULPTOR DEAD.

Larkin Goldsmith Meade Passes Away at Florence, Italy.

New York, Oct. 17.—Larkin Goldsmith Meade, who has been the sculptor of many noteworthy groups and monuments in this country, died on Saturday in Florence, Italy. He was in his seventy-eighth year. He was born in Chesterfield, N. H., and went to work at the age of fifteen as a hardware clerk. A tendency toward modeling developed before long and for two years he studied drawing and sculpture under Henry F. Brown. He went to Italy and for a time was attached to the United States consulate in Venice, where his brother-in-law, William Dean Howells, was consul.

At the time of the civil war he was in the field for six months as an artist for Harper's Weekly. A year after the close of the war he returned to Italy and married Marietta di Benvenuti. The greater part of his life was spent in Florence, and at the time of his death he was professor of correspondence dell'Accademia di Belle Arti.

Some of Mr. Meade's works are the Lincoln monument at Springfield, Ill., the Soldiers' Monument at St. Johnsbury, Vt.; statues of Ethan Allen in the National Art Gallery at Washington, and in the State Capital in Montpelier, Vt., and many ideal works, including the "Returned Soldier," "Echo," "La Contadina," "Sappho," and "The Recording Angel."

Mr. Meade has done high relief portraits in bronze of Henry James, William Dean Howells, and John Hay.

WED TO PLEASE DYING SISTER.

Ceremony Performed a Year Earlier So She Could Witness It.

Bethlehem, Oct. 17.—Miss Annie, daughter of Edmund K. Taylor, of New York, and granddaughter of the late John Taylor, for many years the general passenger agent of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, and G. Edwin Brenholtz, of Lebanon, were married yesterday at the home of the bride's grandmother, at the bedside of the bride's sister, Miss Beesle Taylor, who is critically ill. Rev. George F. Van Fossen, warden of Leonard Hall, officiated.

The wedding was to have taken place next year, but on account of the desire of the bride's sister, who wanted to see the couple married before her death, the ceremony was advanced.

The sister's illness is making a strong bid for sympathy.
